REPORT OF THE DEAN - DR. PETERSEN
A team of pharmacy school deans from University of Iowa, University of Minnesota and University of Maryland, Baltimore will visit UNCG next week for a series of meetings concerning the request to plans a School of Pharmacy. An addendum to the original proposal submitted to GA a year ago has been prepared. The Board of Governors will decide on the proposal at their April meeting.

ETS will implement a new version of the GRE general test in August 2011. According to ETS, the new version will do a better job of capturing the reasoning, critical thinking, and analysis skills needed for graduate study.

The Spring Graduate Faculty meeting originally scheduled for the afternoon of March 18 will coincide with a campus visit from Dr. Patti Clayton, a Senior Scholar at IUPUI and a consultant on engaged scholarship. The meeting will take place at Dr. Clayton’s 10:30 - 11:45 session that day, “Engaged Graduate Education: Responding to, Preparing, and Supporting the Next Generation of Community Engaged Professionals and Scholars.”

The University recently distributed one-time monies this spring and the Graduate School received funds to return summer assistantships levels to previous levels. Permanent funding for summer assistantships is still needed. The University also entertained requests for permanent funds. The Graduate School requested funds to reinstate the Director of Admission position that eliminated last year. The Provost decided to wait for reports from the implementation teams who are responding to the University’s strategic goals before making any decisions about permanent funding.

One of the strategic goals is to increase graduate enrollment. Dean Petersen and others on this implementation team are drafting a proposal to increase recruitment and retention. Needs identified include increased graduate assistantships, increased private giving, broader range of professional development opportunities on campus, more summer classes and online classes, and shortened time to process applications. The Dean welcomed any suggestions.

REPORT OF THE POLICIES AND PROCEDURES SUBCOMMITTEE – DR. SNOWDEN
Discussion Item:
Proposed addition to policy on Conflict of Interest, Bulletin, page 18
The proposed addition to the Conflict of Interest policy fills a gap. We have a policy regarding conflicts of interest for the student-instructor relationship and for faculty-as-student but not for student-as-faculty. The following policy formally requires department to follow the same procedures that the Graduate School currently requires of departments on a case-by-case basis.

Student as Faculty
Graduate students should not be given teaching assignments that would generate conflict of interest. If graduate students are assigned to teach graduate level courses, the department must seek permission from the Dean of The Graduate School, providing rationale for the assignment and including a plan to ensure that conflict of interest is avoided.

Discussion:
The Committee thought that “Teaching Assignments” ought to be defined and clarified. They asked if teaching assignments included graduate students grading their peers’ work or if it meant the class preparation, design of lectures, exams, and papers as well as grading. Also, they wondered if this document should say something about the role of Teaching Assistants vis-à-vis conflicts of interest.
Some Committee members asked about the role of graduate teaching assistants and assignments in 500 level courses. Dean Peterson said his decisions in such situations are to allow the Teaching Assistants and teaching assignments to include the grading of undergraduate exams, but the course’s professor should grade the graduate exams.

Discussion Item:
Proposed revision of Residence Requirement Policy, Bulletin, page 23
The proposed revision tightens the current policy in three respects:

1. By requiring two semesters of coursework the revision excludes dissertation registration as a means of satisfying the requirement; the student must be registered for courses.
2. The revision excludes independent study as a means of satisfying the residence requirement.
3. The revision excludes distance coursework as a means of satisfying the requirement.

Residence Requirement
Doctoral candidates are expected to satisfy a residence requirement, which provides them the opportunity for an extended period of intensive study an intellectual and professional development among a community of scholars.

The basic requirement is two consecutive full-time semesters (minimum of 6 hours per semester) of graduate coursework (excluding independent study) on the main campus after admission to a doctoral program. Consecutive semesters are either fall/spring, spring/summer, or summer/fall with the two sessions of summer school counting as one semester. Undergraduate courses taken in support of a graduate program cannot count towards residence.

Discussion:
The Committee wondered if this minimum requirement should include independent study courses and dissertations as well as courses that have course numbers. Charles Tedder thought that it should exclude both categories toward fulfilling the minimum requirement.

A Committee member believed that perhaps this document should include what she called “borderline” or “pre-candidacy” courses, that is, courses that are designed and count toward a doctoral program, which are completed by the student before he or she is admitted to candidacy in that doctoral program. The Committee member stated that these were not independent study courses or courses toward a student’s dissertation, but constituted their own category.

Also, the Committee thought the P & P Subcommittee should clarify what is meant by “Doctoral Candidates” although it states later on in the document that it could mean “after admission to a doctoral program.” Thus, a revision to this section should address and clarify the difference between “doctoral candidacy” and “admission to a doctoral program.”

Discussion Item:
Proposed revision of GPA Requirement for Graduation Policy
Parts of the policy currently appear under Grades, page 15, and Academic Eligibility to Continue in Graduate School, page 16, of the Bulletin. The relevant text will be moved under the new heading GPA Requirement for Graduation between current headings Appeal of Grades and Academic Eligibility to Continue in Graduate School. A change to the policy restricts the number of hours that may be added to the plan of study to 25% because 12 hours was not appropriate for certificate programs. Adding that no independent study courses may be added emphasizes that students with a GPA below 3.0 are not allowed to register for independent study.

GPA Requirement for Graduation
In the case of a student who has attempted the minimum number of semester hours for the degree or certificate, the Dean of The Graduate School, upon recommendation of the department, may permit the student to continue. If permission is granted, a maximum of 25% of coursework hours may be added to the plan of study, not to exceed 12 hours. The additional hours may not be independent study.

Discussion:
Committee members asked if “25% of coursework” represented the minimum required number of courses to graduate from a program or all the coursework that the student had taken up to the present, which might be more than the minimum. If the latter scenario were the case, the committee thought that would be an unfair expectation, and that this document should be revised to represent 25% of the minimum required coursework to graduate from a program and exclude factoring in any additional courses. The Committee agreed that creating a new section was a good idea.
